The MSSF will be presenting the findings of the survey and presenting the newly released data from the Hays 2022 Salary Guide

In the wake of a post-Covid recovery period that's been stronger and quicker than predicted, organisations are facing soaring skills shortages amidst a rush to hire talent, whilst embedding hybrid working for the long. It's resulting in significant salary growth across many specialist and technical areas – double digit salary increases in many cases. However, pay alone will not always attract the best or retain talented individuals in the long run, so employers must take steps to ensure their full benefits offering is up to scratch, including their flexible working policies, training opportunities and building a culture that promotes purpose and facilitates a good work-life balance.

Join us for an interactive session whereby we'll present findings from the MSSF Survey, insights from MSSF members, the Hays 2022 Salary & Recruiting Trends and lively debate. This event will provide you with recommendations to support and improve existing hybrid working and talent attraction strategies.
